

I see no problem in letting people use wireless computers, text messaging or instant messaging, but the last thing I want to hear in an already noisy environment is a bunch of people yelling over each other on their cell phones!